

We have a right to live with and be taken care of by our family!

Articles 5 and 9 of the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child: All children have a right to live with and be taken care of by their parents. Parents and extended family or community, as provided for by local custom, also have a right to raise and care for their children.

For information on more human rights tools go to www.snaicc.org.au

SNAICC thanks Caroline Mudge for the illustrations and the Department of Families, Housing, Community Services and Indigenous Affairs (FaHCSIA) for funding support for the development of this resource.

We have the right to food, water, housing and healthcare!

Articles 6 and 27 of the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child: All children have the right to life and the right to develop to their fullest ability. This includes in relation to food, water, clothing and housing.

For information on more human rights tools go to www.snaicc.org.au

SNAICC thanks Caroline Mudge for the illustrations and the Department of Families, Housing, Community Services and Indigenous Affairs (FaHCSIA) for funding support for the development of this resource.

We have the right to be cared for and protected!

Article 19 of the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child: All children have a right to be protected from all forms of physical or mental violence, injury or abuse, neglect or exploitation, including sexual abuse.

For information on more human rights tools go to www.snaicc.org.au

SNAICC thanks Caroline Mudge for the illustrations and the Department of Families, Housing, Community Services and Indigenous Affairs (FaHCSIA) for funding support for the development of this resource.

We have the right to be listened to and to say what we think about decisions that impact us!

Article 12 of the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child; Article 18 and 19 of the United Nations Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples: All children have the right to say what they think about all issues that affect them. The views of the child must be given proper weight based on the age and maturity of the child.

For information on more human rights tools go to www.snaicc.org.au

SNAICC thanks Caroline Mudge for the illustrations and the Department of Families, Housing, Community Services and Indigenous Affairs (FaHCSIA) for funding support for the development of this resource.

We have the right to learn, no matter what!

Articles 28 and 29 of the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child; Article 14 of the United Nations Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples: All children have the right to education which supports the development of their personality, talents, and mental and physical abilities to their fullest potential. Indigenous peoples have the right to establish and control their educational systems and institutions, providing education in their own language, in a manner appropriate to their cultural methods of teaching and learning.

For information on more human rights tools go to www.snaicc.org.au

SNAICC thanks Caroline Mudge for the illustrations and the Department of Families, Housing, Community Services and Indigenous Affairs (FaHCSIA) for funding support for the development of this resource.

We have the right to practice our culture with our family and communities!

Article 30 of the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child; Articles 11 and 12 of the United Nations Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples: All Indigenous children have the right, together with their community, to learn about and practice their own culture, to follow their religion and to use their own language.

For information on more human rights tools go to www.snaicc.org.au

SNAICC thanks Caroline Mudge for the illustrations and the Department of Families, Housing, Community Services and Indigenous Affairs (FaHCSIA) for funding support for the development of this resource.

We have the right to play and get a good night's sleep!

Article 19 of the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child: All children have the right to rest and leisure, to engage in play and recreational activities appropriate to their age and to participate freely in cultural life and the arts.

For information on more human rights tools go to www.snaicc.org.au

SNAICC thanks Caroline Mudge for the illustrations and the Department of Families, Housing, Community Services and Indigenous Affairs (FaHCSIA) for funding support for the development of this resource.